About Acappella Anonymous and NUSS Choir

Acappella Anonymous, also known as AA, is a vocal sextet focused on bringing the sophisticated jazz sounds of the 40s to the modern age.

The National University of Singapore Society (NUSS) Choir was formed in 1998 with an aim to bring together members who share a passion for singing.

Singing has been known to relieve stress and improve lung function. Making music has been known to magnify memory and slow the progress of dementia. But what if you do not own a piano or a set of drums? Fear not as Acappella Anonymous and NUSS Choir (conducted by Adyll Hardy) show you how it is possible to make music with only your voice and the support of your best friends or family. They will present evergreen tunes from yesteryears, together with a number from a modern musical that will get your feet tapping and fingers snapping. Expect to hum along and reminisce the nostalgic songs of your youth. And perhaps take up a new pastime together with your kawan-kawan (friends) and your beatbox loving grandchildren.
